

Bonus - Job Applying Guide

▼ How to find jobs in the market?

-Like every other thing there is also a demand and supply for jobs as well. To find the right opportunity you need to know all the best resources for jobs.

Before even Interviewing / finding a job you should always know about the demand of the skills that you are looking for as well as the amount of salary that you can get based on the demand.

Use an app / website called fishbowl - This is a community where you can get everything, You have different groups of people which you can join -

1. You can ask people for referrals
2. You can ask people for guides
3. You can ask people about company reviews

Using LinkedIn DM Referral Strategy - LinkedIn is the best platform to get referrals, for that you need to DM potential employees of the company and ask them for referral if there is an opening.

To find potential Employees you need to do something like this, for example you want to apply for a Frontend developer job at Deloitte, search the term on LinkedIn search box like this “Frontend developer Deloitte” or “ Deloitte frontend developer” and if you want you can put more search filters.

This search will give you a list of employees working at Deloitte as frontend developer, DM them politely asking them for a referral.

Using Popular Websites - There are many popular websites . online job platform where you can apply

1. AngelList - It is one the largest online Job platform for startups (Big + small). so if you are fresher and just looking for a frontend developer role, you can look over here.
2. Naukri - It is one the most popular interms of job searches, you can go and make a profile on naukri and make sure its full 100% strength. Then based on your Experience / availability you will receive calls from companies. Even here you can also apply to job by searching .
3. LinkedIn - LinkedIn job portal you can use and apply to job thats are available or even use it as a sorce to find latest job posted by the companies. after you find jobs posted by the companies you can directly follow the linkedIn DM strategy to get referrals.
4. Referrals from Friends - This is the most time efficient way where you can try to get a job by taking an referral from a friend.

At last, all you need is patient as job search can be a lengthy process + tiring too so never get demotivated if you are not receiving calls just try all different methods combined and surely you will see sucess on your job search.
